Changes and Modifications in the Election System

*533. SHRI C.M. IBRAHIM: Will the Minister of LAW, JUSTICE AND COMPANY AFFAIRS be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government are contemplating any changes and modifications in the Election System;

(b) if so, what are the specific proposals; and

(c) whether certain changes and modifications in the Election System, especially selection of candidates by political parties, are also under its consideration?

THE MINISTER OF LAW, JUSTICE AND COMPANY AFFAIRS (SHRI ARUN JAITLEY): (a) and (b) some suggestions for change in the system of elections to the House of the People and the Legislative Assemblies of the States have been received. The First-Past-The-Post system has been criticized on the ground that candidate elected in a multi-corned contest is generally the one who does not secure majority of votes polled. Various expert bodies like the committee on Electoral Reforms (Dinesh Goswami Committee), the Law Commission of India (170th Report on Reform of Electoral Laws), etc. have made recommendations in this regard. The issue is also being studied by the National Commission to Review the Working of the Constitution. There is no consensus among the political parties on changing the First-Past-The-Post system. Hence no steps can be taken in the near future for changing the system.

(c) The Government has no intention of interfering with the process of selection of candidates by the political parties, which is their internal matter.
